Subject: Microsoft Settlement

I find Microsoft's proposed settlement of its pending civil suits absurd. In response to claims of being a monopoly and maintaining a stranglehold on the operating system, web browser, and office suite markets Microsoft suggests that it could make amends by providing schools with its products. Microsoft wants to respond to monopoly claims by flooding the market and targeting children with its products. One cannot possibly correct a wrong by perpetuating it. And yet this is what Microsoft has suggested. This defies all logic. I am utterly opposed to this settlement.
